ANTI-ANNEXATION MASS MEETING AT HIGH SCHOOL TONIGHT

HUGE PROGRAM OF STREET WORK IS BEING RUSHED

About 200 Men Engaged In Highway Paving Under Direction of City

The fastest growing city in America also has the fastest growing system of paved streets. Almost 200 men are now engaged in the business of improving the highways of Glendale. Later on the by-ways and alleys will be paved, too.

Official statistics at the city hall show that there are 8,892 families residing within the city limits. Most families have only one adult male. If it were not for the fact that many of those occupied here in street work live in Los Angeles and elsewhere, it might be said that one man out of every forty-four, residing in this city, is engaged in improving the streets of Glendale.

Much Work Under Way
Fifteen jobs of street work are now actively under way, according to an announcement made at the city hall by City Engineer Ben F. Dupuy. Each of these contracts is keeping about ten men busy. This means a total of 150 men actually engaged in the physical labor of street work. In addition, the municipal street department employs about fifty men in work directly connected with the streets of the municipality.

To make sure that contractors do each inch of their work according to specifications eleven inspectors on the city payroll are kept busy. They are: W. H. Bullis, J. B. Bennett, W. C. Burr, C. M. Holton, C. E. Towson, A. M. Fish, John Beyer, L. C. Schaf, L. A. Fortier, J. H. Binder and J. C. Williams.

To stake out the lines and grades preparatory to the arrival of paving gangs, two crews are now at work under the direction of R. G. McLane, field deputy. (Continued on Page 12)

Glendale to Greet Xmas With Singing

Glendale's welcome to Christmas day is to be community singing of Christmas carols, according to plans made last night at the meeting of the Community Service music committee members and representatives of local choral organizations at the high school.

Alexander Stuart, musical organizer for the Community Service district on the Pacific coast, directed the meeting and assisted by Misses Gertrude Champlain and Alma Geisler, pianists, led in the singing of some of the carols.

It is the plan of Mrs. Dora L. Gibson, chairman, Mrs. Harry McMillin, Miss Elsa Brennaman and Mrs. W. Q. Widdows of the Community Service music committee, and their assistants, to make the caroling the big feature of the community Christmas tree on Christmas night. The committee is soliciting the aid of the public schools and churches in teaching and rehearsing the carols and school and church musical directors are to serve as sub-chairmen assisting Mrs. Gibson.

The tentative plan is to have church and school groups come in bodies to the Christmas tree singing carols. Also for individual groups to sing carols in the various neighborhoods and at the hospitals early Christmas morning.

A well-known soloist will also appear at the Christmas tree celebration.

Annexation Will Not Remove Phone Toll, Announced

Reports are being circulated to the effect that if Glendale annexes to Los Angeles the telephone toll between the two cities will be eliminated. Fred Deal, manager of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company, said today:

"Annexation of Glendale to Los Angeles will NOT result in having the telephone toll removed. The toll is under the jurisdiction of the state railroad commission. The towns of Palms, San Pedro, Wilmington, Culver City, Sawtelle, Van Nuys and Owensmouth, which have been annexed to Los Angeles, still pay a telephone toll. The same will hold true for Glendale if annexed."

DIES FROM GRIEF OVER MURDER OF HER SON
VENTURA, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Mattie L. Barrows, who died as the result of grief over the murder of her son, Buell Barrows, in Ventura, will be buried beside the grave of her boy. Mrs. Barrows was not told of her son's death until several days after he was killed while sitting in an automobile on the beach with his sweetheart, Hazel Middleton.

LA FOLLETTE SEEKS INFORMATION ON MERGER
WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The secretary of agriculture would be requested to report immediately to the senate all information in his possession regarding any proposed merger of the "big five" meat packers by a resolution introduced in the senate this afternoon by Senator La Follette, Republican, Wisconsin, who said he wanted to get at the real truth "back of the combine of Armour & Co., and Morris & Co."

ALLEGED 'WOMEN BLUEBEARDS' ARE INDICTED
CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Indictments charging murder were returned by the county grand jury today against Mrs. Tillie Klimek and Mrs. Nellie Sterner-Koulik, alleged "women bluebeards" after the jury had heard evidence concerning the death of Mrs. Klimek's third husband, Frank Kupozyak. The women, who are cousins, have been suspected of a dozen poison mystery deaths.

MAN, WIFE AND FOUR CHILDREN ARE FOUND DEAD
LANCASTER, O., Nov. 22.—Irvine Henderson, 40, his wife and four children, Ella, 7; Helen, 6; and Mayme, 4, and Christina, 18 months, were found dead at their home here today, victims of poison. An unmailed letter, written by Henderson, directed to the Ohio state board of health, expressed the opinion that they were being given poison by some unknown enemy, was found on the floor of the room.

BRITISH WORKERS GATHER FOR DEMONSTRATION
LONDON, Nov. 22.—While heavy detachments of foot and mounted police stood guard over the government buildings and the premier's official residence, between 15,000 and 20,000 unemployed British workers gathered along the Thames this afternoon for a hostile demonstration in Downing street. Extremist leaders among the workers had confidently predicted that 100,000 unemployed men and women would storm their way into Downing street. Conservative labor leaders counselled against the demonstration and persuaded many to remain away.

U. S. SENATE MAY ACT ON CLEMENCEAU'S TALK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The first speech of Georges Clemenceau in the United States, in which he bluntly informed his audience it was America's duty to come to the aid of Europe, threatened to kick up a row this afternoon that may be aired on the floor of the senate. The "tiger's" remarks at New York last night were keenly resented today by members of the old irreconcilable group of senators who fought the league of nations. Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, ranking member of the senate foreign relations committee, said: "It is an outrage. It is intolerable that this blood-thirsty Frenchman, who has done more than anyone else to plunge the world in misery and Europe in wretchedness should come over here and make such a speech."

PLENTY OF TURKEYS FOR THANKSGIVING DINNER

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—Turkeys will be plentiful in California this season, but the increased production may be offset by a smaller percentage of the birds being in marketable condition for the Thanksgiving and Christmas trade. Prices will not vary greatly from those paid last year during the holiday season—probably ranging around 45 cents a pound dressed. These deductions were made today from reports to Fred N. Bigelow, chief of the state division of markets. If early receipts prove light, prices may soar above the 45 cent mark, while, on the other hand, heavy shipments may react to the consumers' benefit and bring lower prices. Cold storage holdings are much less in dressed turkeys this year than last, there being but 27,000 pounds held this year against 100,000 pounds at this time last year, reports to Bigelow show.

HOLD FUNERAL SERVICES FOR FRANK BACON

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—They rang the final curtain down on "Lightnin' Bill" Frank Bacon today. Simple but impressive funeral services over the body of the beloved actor were held in the Blackstone theatre, where still echoed the drawing voice of him who nightly, for more than a year, had preached a gentle doctrine—and his last audience sobbed. The throngs who crowded the theatre represented every strata of society, just as the crowds before whom Bacon had acted in his own play, "Lightnin'" for more than four years, had represented every class. Every member of the theatrical profession in Chicago was present. The honorary pallbearers included Frank Craven, George Arliss, William Collier, Joseph Santley, Grant Mitchell, Harry Davenport and Allan Pollock. Besides his widow, a son, Lloyd Bacon, who arrived from California for the funeral; Mrs. Bessie Bacon Allen, a daughter, and three grand children were the chief mourners.

TWO BADLY BURNED WHEN TRAIN HITS TRUCK

SAN JOSE, Nov. 22.—Fireman D. Y. Dykes was probably fatally burned and Engineer Lantz was badly burned when Southern Pacific passenger train No. 32 struck an oil truck at College Park crossing near here today, igniting the oil. One coach and the baggage car were destroyed and passengers in the coach had narrow escapes. The gasoline in the truck immediately ignited after the impact and within a few moments the cars were blazing torches. Several hundred students from the college of the Pacific rushed to the scene and aided in extricating the passengers, uncoupling one of the cars from the rest of the flaming train. The contents of the mail car was likewise saved by students. Douglas Rogerson, driver of the truck, declared that a heavy fog obscured his vision. He stopped at the crossing to permit train No. 42 to pass, failing to see No. 32, as it rushed by. Both Rogerson and Harold Garner, Santa Clara college student who was on the truck, escaped injury. About 1000 gallons of gasoline and coal oil were in the truck.

GLENDALE LIBRARY CHILDREN'S WEEK HOLDS INTEREST

John Steven McGroarty Is Guest of Honor; Young Folk Continue Visits

That the success and enjoyment of the Children's Week celebration that closed at the Glendale library today will inspire Glendale children to make every week their week by joining with the adult patrons in a happy intimate acquaintance with library officers and the treasures over which they preside, is the sincere desire voiced by Mrs. Alma J. Danford, city librarian.

Children's Week has been crowded full of interesting things in library-lore and under the direction of Mrs. Danford and her staff and the teachers of the city schools, hundreds of Glendale children have visited the library, where they have received the idea of library etiquette and poise, and have been guided in the first steps of reference work, and been inspired to seek the companionship of books in their leisure hours.

Many Children Attend
Indications of the enthusiasm with which the children have enjoyed their own special week, is seen in the necessity of continuing the celebration into two days of this week. Yesterday Mrs. Danford and her assistants had as their guests between 150 and 200 children, the majority representing the seventh and eighth grades.

A red letter day of the celebration and an event that will be an outstanding event in the history of the library was the privilege of entertaining as a guest and speaker, Saturday night, John Steven McGroarty, author of "The Mission Play," and writer about California, its history and romance.

Mr. McGroarty was a guest at the library on Scouts' Night, and assisting Mrs. Danford were Mrs. Charles H. Temple and T. W. Pres. (Continued on Page 12)

Modern Woodmen to Hold Meeting Friday

Glendale camp, No. 12886 of the Modern Woodmen of America will hold its regular meeting Friday night at its hall, the corner of Brand and Park. A number of candidates are scheduled for initiation.

At the last meeting, held two weeks ago, a baker's dozen were admitted, in the presence of a large delegation of visitors from camps located in Pasadena, South Pasadena, Alhambra and Burbank, following which refreshments were served.

A motion picture film, depicting fraternity at its highest development, will be shown at the T. D. & L. Theatre in the near future, under the auspices of the Glendale Woodmen, it is announced. Numerous other activities for the coming months are stated to be under way.

The camp's membership has long since passed the hundred mark and with its team in uniform, is rapidly making a most favorable showing amongst Modern Woodmen camps of southern California.

Uncle John Says--

Mary likes to put on quite a little dog for a woman of her years and it is quite amusing to me. She is quite a booster for the Tuesday Afternoon club as she is for anything she belongs to so she has to get a new outfit for the club meetin' and cornerstone layin'. "Well, I suppose you'll be goin' to one of them big Los Angeles stores and gettin' fitted out for the doin's," I said, lookin' at her out of the corner of my eye. "No, I can do better here," she said, "and besides, I think I'll go to specialty shops. I saw a lovely pawray twill in mid-night blue at Gordon's that will go lovely with the hat I got of Yarbrough Hat Shop, and with one of them new fur neckpieces that Hatz is showing, I think I will look proper for the occasion. Of course I'll have Marinello Beauty Shop put up my hair and, fix my nails." "All right, Mary," I said, "but don't ever let me hear of you gettin' your hair bobbed. At that, Mary had a lot of younger women skinned for looks at the big doin's."

SPEAKER TELLS OF GREAT NEEDS IN BUILDING CITY

Public Spirited Men and Women Are Necessity In Community Work

Prime essentials for, community building and vital requirements which go toward the functioning of a successful Chamber of Commerce or any other body founded on cooperation were elucidated yesterday at the weekly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce by W. H. Farley, of the National Cash Register company, Dayton, Ohio.

Mr. Farley was introduced by V. M. Hollister, president of the chamber, who presided. He told his listeners that one of the points that he wished to emphasize was "when selfishness enters into the life of an organization, that organization ceases to exist successfully." He substantiated this assertion by reciting briefly how the existence of bodies organized in the early days for the purpose of cooperation were cut short because of selfishness.

First Meet in Paris
The first gathering of business men to unite for commercial progress was effected in Paris in 1728," he said. "When this failed in its purpose, because of selfishness, the project was taken up in England. Here it was called the Board of Trade. This agency, too, operated but a short time and quit. And once again the idea was taken up by the business men of Paris, but again it failed.

Then the idea of a business organization arrived in the United States. Its success here varied according to the caliber of the men who participated in the organizations. Where unselfish men take hold the results are reflected in every prosperous American city. Communities, like business houses, require managers, and in this respect, the 'boss of town' is the Chamber of Commerce." (Continued on Page 12)

School of Missions Will Close Tonight

The closing session of the School of Missions is scheduled for the Presbyterian church at 7 o'clock tonight, preceded by a dinner at 6:30 o'clock and followed by a prayer meeting at 8 o'clock, with a social half-hour afterward.

At the school session, the topic will be India and a very interesting and instructive program is anticipated.

At the prayer meeting the pastor, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, will continue his study of the Bible by books, the book for tonight's consideration being Nehemiah. A free-will offering will be received to cover the expenses of the School of Missions.

GLENDALE EXCHANGE CLUB GIVES REASONS FOR NOT ANNEXING TO LOS ANGELES

Local Organization Issues Statement In Which It Points Out True Facts To Residents of This City

Why Glendale should NOT annex to Los Angeles has been summarized in the following statement issued by the Glendale Exchange Club:

"It is not necessary to annex to the city of Los Angeles in order to secure additional water. We have secured a statement from the foremost water engineer in Southern California to the effect that Glendale's present water supply can be developed further to a point which will make it adequate for our needs for years to come.

"Our municipal water and electric lighting rates as applied to the ordinary householder are positively less than those of Los Angeles. In substantiation of this statement, we are quoting you the comparative rates of the two cities as prepared by Superintendent Deiderich of the light and water department, as published already.

"Our phone rates in the city of Glendale are very much less than those in the city of Los Angeles. The following table will be sufficient to indicate this:

Residential Telephone:		Los Angeles	Glendale
Single party phone	Desk	$4.00	$3.00
	Wall	3.75	2.75
Two party phone	Desk	3.25	2.50
	Wall	3.00	2.25
Four party phone	Desk	2.50	2.25
	Wall	2.00	2.00
Business Telephone:
Single party phone	Desk	9.25	4.25
	Wall	9.00	4.00
Two party phone	Desk	7.25	3.75
	Wall	7.00	3.50

"We challenge our annexation friends to prove the statement that we will get a reduction in car fare from the Pacific Electric immediately upon annexation. If their statement is true, why did not the Atwater tract just south of our city get such a reduction? It has been in Los Angeles city for years.

"A visit to Hollywood and a talk with the business men there will convince that the city of Los Angeles never fulfilled the promises which they made to that city prior to annexation." The same is true of Sawtelle, in fact practically all of the smaller communities which have been absorbed by the city of Los Angeles, principally in order that their bonding capacity might be drained or exhausted for the benefit of the larger city. ★

"Any citizen who cares to inquire into the facts in the city of Los Angeles knows that the present sewer system of that city is very seriously overloaded. It will require a new outfall sewer or a new intercepting sewer of some sort to relieve this condition before it would be possible for the present system to care for the sewage of the city of Glendale.

"The city of Los Angeles has already, however, signified its willingness to allow us to connect with their system at a time when the system will be large enough to care for our sewage at a price not yet fixed. In case this price is reasonable and fair, arrangements will doubtless be made at some future time along this line. Nothing could be done any sooner in this respect by annexation.

"The city of Glendale can install an adequate sewage disposal plant either within or without its borders at any time the people vote the necessary bonds to cover the cost thereof. This matter is being given the most serious and earnest consideration by the city council, in conjunction with the best experts obtainable, at this time.

"The contention is made by those who have not studied the question that our taxes would be reduced should we annex to Los Angeles. This contention will not bear investigation.

"In the first place the school, county and flood control taxes for 1922-23 were $3.01 as against the total city, county, school and flood control tax of $4.56. In other words, the county, school and flood control tax which we are paying at the present time is nearly three-quarters of our total tax. This would not be lessened one penny by annexation to Los Angeles.

"In addition to this, the city of Glendale would still be compelled to pay every dollar of its present bonded indebtedness as well as assume its proportionate part of the present bonded indebtedness of the city of Los Angeles. While it cannot be actually stated just what this amount would be, we know that it would be very large, causing a corresponding increase in our taxes.

"Immediately upon annexation, the present heavy licenses covering all lines of business in the city of Los Angeles will become effective against our Glendale merchants. The aggregate license tax which Los Angeles would collect from Glendale would amount to approximately $96,000 per year.

"Glendale as a city has certain ideals which the local city council has endeavored at all times to uphold. At the present time, according to the expressed wish of our people, there are no pool halls allowed in the city of Glendale. Immediately upon annexation unquestionably a number of pool halls will at once be put in and our citizens could not prevent this however much they might wish to do so.

"Last and not least, the matter of SERVICE! A Los Angeles city official who lives in Van Nuys, which is now a part of the city of Los Angeles, stated that it was taking them about a year to get the proceedings through the city council of Los Angeles for certain street work which the residents of that city desired to have done.

"This is only one illustration of the lack of service which the city of Glendale would receive from the Los Angeles authorities, owing largely to the fact that they would have no representative on the Los Angeles city council at the time of annexation. At the present time our people always have the satisfaction of going before the Glendale city council and getting immediate action in some form on any civic matter. This in itself is no inconsiderable item and should be given the proper consideration."

PEOPLE URGED TO VOICE PROTESTS OVER JOINING LOS ANGELES

Holding Election Needless Expense to Taxpayers, Is Opinion Expressed

Every resident of Glendale opposed to annexation with Los Angeles is urged to attend the anti-annexation mass meeting to be held in the auditorium of the Glendale Union High school tonight.

The gathering will be called to order at 8 o'clock and in the official call it is announced that one of the purposes is to organize so as to "afford this opportunity and to PLACE ITS DISAPPROVAL UPON ALL SUCH MOVEMENTS (meaning annexation), WITHOUT THE EXPENSE OF HOLDING AN ELECTION.

If those heading the annexation campaign secure a certain number of signatures to petitions, the City Council will be forced under the law to call an election. The meeting tonight, it is announced, will endeavor to show that the majority of the people are against annexation and, therefore, there is no use to force the taxpayers to pay for an election.

The call for tonight's meeting says that "the situation is serious. It must be met with a united front." The claim is made that some favoring annexation are circulating false and misleading stories. It is also claimed that this is being done to secure signatures to petitions calling for an election.

In adjoining columns the Glendale Exchange club makes a statement on the issue, pointing out very clearly that there is no reason for Glendale to annex to Los Angeles—and a number of reasons why the city should not. It is predicted that other civic organizations will also issue (Continued on Page 12)

Local Music Club Secures Two Artists

Grace Wood-Jess, widely known mezzo soprano and costume artist, and America's famous composer, Chas. Wakefield Cadman, and his Indian princess singer, Tainia (Chenani), are to be the attractions offered for the December and January programs of the Glendale Music club. Decision to present these artists was made at the executive board session presided over by Mrs. Mattison B. Jones yesterday afternoon at the high school.

Grace Wood-Jess will present a costume recital the first Thursday night in December and her program will include folk songs of all nations, Southern plantation melodies and old Kentucky folk songs. All of her songs are given in costume and one of the features of her expensive and artistic wardrobe is a gown that was worn by Mrs. Lincoln, wife of the martyred president.

Mr. Cadman and the Indian princess will appear under the auspices of the music club, the first Thursday night in January. These two artists need no introduction to Glendale music lovers. Glendale shares in the nationwide appreciation of the Cadman compositions and the Princess' talent as a singer and the announcement of their coming recital will be a great interest to music club members and friends.

The club is making special plans for the Charter Night program in February and for the March program, but details have not been announced for either. At the meeting yesterday Mrs. Pearl Keller Prattman, Mrs. Grace Johnson and Miss Alberta Green were named on the board as adult directors of the juvenile department of the club.

Girl Scouts Seeking Gifts for Children

Glendale Girl Scout Troop 2 and their lieutenant, Mrs. F. H. Roberts, of 312 West Myrtle street, have just adopted all the kiddies over at the Children's hospital in Los Angeles, and are planning to shower them with jellies and jams for the holidays. Somehow or other a little glass of jelly or jam makes the sun shine just a bit brighter for the little sick-a-bed boys and girls and Glendadians are being asked to contribute one glass or more. Mrs. Roberts and the Girl Scouts are launching a house to house solicitation, and in order that no one in Glendale will feel hurt if they are missed, Mrs. Roberts announces that a phone message will bring a messenger for a sweet contribution for the hospital kiddies.

TWO HURT WHEN AUTO RUNS AWAY

Mr. and Mrs. John Macgregor of 430 W. Wilson Hurt In Strange Accident

What came very near being a fatal accident occurred at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the enclosed car containing Mr. and Mrs. John Macgregor, of 430 West Wilson avenue, went out of control on Ivanhoe hill, Los Angeles, and dashed to the bottom, turning over several times.

When found shortly afterward, Mrs. Macgregor was unconscious and her husband was bleeding profusely. They were rushed to a hospital, where both were treated for lacerations and bruises. Several stitches were necessary in Mr. Macgregor's scalp.

Although they are both resting comfortably today, they are not yet out of danger, as they have sustained internal injuries that could not be determined until later.

The car is reported to be completely wrecked. The top was knocked entirely off and other damage was sustained.

Conservative Speed
Mr. Macgregor, when interviewed, stated that in his opinion the accident was caused by a defect suddenly appearing in the steering apparatus.

"I was driving at a conservative rate of speed," he explains, "when the first thing I knew I found myself unable to control the car. I shut off the power and tried to apply the brakes but it was too late. The car swerved and rushed down the hill. I remember frantically struggling to regain control. Then the crash came and I felt us going over and over, with broken glass and splintering wood thick about us. That is the last I remember till I crawled out from under the wreck and lifted my wife out unconscious. How we escaped death, I can't understand."

Mr. Macgregor hopes to get out in a day or two and have a look at the remains of his machine, which he feels confident will reveal what caused the wreck.

Six Injured When Train Turns Turtle

M'ALESTER, Okla., Nov. 22.—Six persons were injured this morning when the Katy limited, northbound, was wrecked at Reams, near here.

The train was more than three hours late and was traveling at fifty-five miles an hour, according to railroad reports. The engine and six cars stayed on the track, but six pullman cars were overturned.

A broken rail was said to have caused the wreck, but officials at Muskogee, the division point, denied this report.

ROTARY CONVERTERS

The radio frequency amplifying transformers shown in the illustration are remarkably flexible and efficient units. The wave length of the transformer is controlled by a knob marked "tuning" and can be set for any wave length between 150 and 550 meters. This range covers all broadcasting and permits of maximum efficiency of the transformer. Previous efforts along the lines of radio frequency amplification have been confined to the use of a radio frequency transformer, working efficiently only at one or two wave lengths. The range is, therefore, a very valuable feature.

RADIO EXPLAINED By LIEUT. JOHN R. IRWIN INSTRUCTOR U. S. AIR SERVICE

RADIO FREQUENCY TRANSFORMERS

If connections are made to a pair of collector rings from the opposite sides of a two pole d. c. armature, it will generate alternating current. At the same time direct current can be taken from the commutator. In that case the machine is a "double current generator." If not driven by an engine, but connected to a d. c. circuit, it operates as a shunt motor and can be used to generate a. c. Operated on a. c. as a motor, it delivers d. c. When used for such conversion it is called a rotary converter. When an a. c. generator is used as a motor (not an induction motor) it requires d. c. for field excitation and operates at the exact speed (called "synchronous speed"), corresponding to the frequency of the supply. The d. c. for the rotary converter field comes from the commutator. On the other hand, when such a converter is used to generate a. c., the frequency depends on the speed of rotation of the armature, which can be controlled as previously described for the shunt motor.

The rotary converter has the advantage of accomplishing in a single machine what the motor-generator does in two. Its disadvantage is that the voltage at the generator end depends entirely on the voltage supplied in the case of a single phase converter being about 71 per cent of the d. c. voltage, slightly more or less, depending on the direction of the conversion. Thus, if operated on a ten volt storage battery, it would give about 7 volts a. c. Also, frequencies anything like 500 cycles, which it is desirable to get in radio communication from d. c. with storage batteries as a source, are practically impossible; either the speed or the number would have to be increased beyond reason.

THEATRES

The Glendale

As "Cigarette," daughter of the regiment, in "Under Two Flags," Priscilla Dean gives a characterization that continues at the Glendale theatre out of sheer merit. All the passion, selfishness, jealousy, love, hatred and patriotism that marked the stormy life of Ouida's famous character of the desert are portrayed by the inimitable Priscilla in a series of scenes that make one forget one is watching a picture.

One stupendous scene alone, where several companies of French soldiers engage a band of mounted Arab tribesmen in battle on the desert, would more than carry the average photoplay to success. But "Under Two Flags" sweeps on from one big scene to another and when they are not spectacular they are dramatic and intense in the extreme.

What is quite likely to be one of the first outstanding pictures of the year, National attraction "Brawn of the North," starring the dog Strongheart. This new film following "The Silent Call" was over a year in the making and it is safe to prophesy that it will reward its producers and star by being considerably over a year in the showing. A feature of the film is a full pack of savage timber wolves. Getting and training these beasts alone consumed six months.

Harding In Battle Over Ship Subsidy

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—President Harding launched full tilt today in the hardest fight that has thus far marked his occupancy of the White House and the leadership of his party—the battle to jam the ship subsidy bill through a congress that is none too willing, where it is not downright hostile.

The president has assumed personal command of the fight. Not only will he be consulted at every turn in the difficult road ahead, but he will seek by personal contact to win the wavering ones in both senate and house. The next few weeks will see many conferences at the White House between Mr. Harding and those who are known to be "on the fence" regarding the administration's pet measure.

President Harding and his advisers believed they gained victory for the measure by the cold dollar-and-cents argument advanced by the president in his special message Tuesday.

A new poll of the house, taken by administration lieutenants, indicates, they said today, that the bill will pass the house by a majority of about 30 votes, slim enough in a Republican majority of 160. The majority is not large enough to give the supporters of the measure any feeling of comfort, for absenteeism and disgruntled "lame ducks" can wipe that out in the twinkling of an eye.

London Police Halt March of Workers

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Hundreds of foot and mounted police were massed along the Thames embankment today to prevent unemployed workers from carrying out their threat to march into Downing street and make a hostile demonstration in front of the premier's official residence.

The decision to make the demonstration came after Premier Andrew Bonar Law for the second time since taking office, refused to receive a delegation from the ranks of the unemployed who sought promises of relief in parliament.

Accusations are openly made by Tories and the Tory press that the demonstration was staged "by Moscow." They expressed fear of riots.

A statement issued from the premier's Downing street residence claimed that the extremist leaders among the workers had given orders to the unemployed to "infiltrate by twos and threes into White Hall." Many marchers, it was claimed, would be armed with revolvers and other weapons.

Although the "march upon Downing street" was not scheduled to begin until 10:30 o'clock this morning, little groups of unemployed workers, some carrying small red flags under their coats, began gathering along the embankment during the morning.

Harmony Lacking at Near East Council

LAUSANNE, Nov. 22.—The harmony which marked the first stage of the Near East peace conference had begun to crack under the strain when the delegates assembled again today in secret session.

Ismet Pasha and the other Turkish delegates were plainly angered by the steady rejection of all their requests and they were particularly disgruntled over the active interest shown by the United States in Turkish affairs.

There were reports that Tuesday's meeting had been very stormy, but the British denied this. Secrecy was increased today.

Correspondents were barred from the chateau press salon. Premier Poincare of France has been called back home on pressing business and his place as head of the French delegation was taken by Emile Barrere.

M. Poincare's departure was followed by an interesting arrival—M. Vorovsky, Russian soviet envoy to Italy. The soviet diplomat said he had come from Rome to engage rooms for the "Russian delegation." This was the first definite intimation that Russians would take part in the parley.

RECEPTION BY CHURCH
A reception last night in the Guild hall of St. Mark's Episcopal church at Louise and Harvard streets, at which the women of the guild were hostesses, complimented the new rector and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Philip K. Kemp. Over 150 guests were received.
Under the direction of Mrs. F. S. Card the hall had been most artistically decorated for the affair. Poinsettia fern, English ivy and large bouquets of yellow and white chrysanthemums were used about the room and quantities of French marigolds were banked on the piano.

HOUSEHOLD AIDS

BEING OFFERED
Glendale Merchants Provide Complete Line to Meet With Every Demand
"The subject of household appliances, and particularly those which lessen the labor and drudgery of housekeeping duties, is one that is always interesting and one to which the average housewife will always lend a ready ear," said a prominent Glendale business man this morning.
"For the woman who is tied to her home by work, who does not have the advantage of some of the modern labor saving devices, such as the electric washer, ironer, electric or gas range, vacuum cleaner and numerous other apparatus, is never able to attend a club meeting, entertain her friends or devote time to any interest outside her home," he continued.
In the quest for these labor savers, outside shopping centers have some time attracted the attention of the Glendale housewife, but, notwithstanding, a canvass of Glendale's business district emphatically shows that every conceivable kind of device intended to lighten the burden of housework is offered here at home and at prices that are consistent with the values. In many instances the prices are considerably less than charged for the same article by outside points.
In today's advertising columns of The Evening News, Glendale dealers are presenting to The News' family of readers, a page announcement about labor-saving devices for the housewife. Here she can find everything from a carpet sweeper to an electric sewing machine. Every dealer represented is a leader in his line and thoroughly responsible. They are worthy of your sincere consideration and patronage.
You can buy it in Glendale.

S. P. Offers to Make Improvements on C. P.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 22.—The Southern Pacific stands ready, if its application for temporary lease of the Central Pacific is granted, to make important improvements of facilities and trackwork on the latter road's lines, Julius Kruttschnitt, chairman of the board of the Southern Pacific, told the interstate commerce commission today.
"When unified control continues or ceases," Kruttschnitt said, "capital expenditures should be made on the Central Pacific to provide improvements in facilities at important traffic centers."

Deaths and Funerals
JOHN KENYON
In the death yesterday, Tuesday, November 21, 1922, of John Kenyon at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ada Billington, at 1227 East California avenue, Glendale, loses a resident who has witnessed the remarkable growth of the city has experienced during the past eleven years.
Mr. Kenyon came to Glendale eleven years ago from the state of Massachusetts, and during the past years he had made his home on East California avenue.
He was 77 years of age at the time of his death and in addition to Mrs. Billington he leaves an only daughter, Miss Elizabeth Kenyon, who lives at the Billington home; and two brothers, John W. and Albert Kenyon, both of Fall River, Mass.
Mr. Kenyon and his family have always been members of the First Methodist church and Dr. Henry I. Rasmus, Sr., will conduct the funeral services at 2 o'clock tomorrow, Thursday, at the Little Church of Flowers in Forest Lawn Memorial park, where interment will take place. Jewel City Undertaking company in charge.

Toreador Trousers
Arrive in Portland
PORTLAND, Ore.—Poon pants on Broadway, or, more politely, "toreador trousers!"
The latest sartorial eccentricity has appeared on Portland streets. Made of the brightest of green corduroy, they were a sight for sore eyes when a dapper youth strutted down Broadway (main thoroughfare) recently. About the waist they fitted the wearer like a corset. A wide and gorgeously colored sash held them in place. They clung close to the knee in the trail form of the youth who dared parade in them.
But their glory was their but-toms. Half way to the knee on both sides ran double rows of white pearl buttons. They were slit several inches from the bottom, and criss-cross laces held the parts together.
Scornful looks and jibes of passersby meant little to the youth who went his way conscious that he had at least attracted attention.

ECONOMY CENTER PROVING POPULAR

Varieteria, Conducted Here
by A. Snyder, Offers
Numerous Bargains

Varieteria is the best adjective that can be found to describe Glendale's new economy center, conducted by A. Snyder on Central avenue, facing Broadway.

The word cafeteria through its application to the popular self-service eating places has won world-wide recognition; groceries is fast becoming popular as the term applied to self-service grocery stores; and now comes Varieteria and Mr. Snyder's splendidly arranged and equipped store is in truth a self-service variety shop.

Satisfying the buying public's wants is Mr. Snyder's hobby and his permanent extensive stock is being added to continually. Included in his stock are notions, stationery, toys, fancy goods, china, crockery, kitchenware, enamelware, tinware, galvanized-ware, cutlery, glassware and specialties.

Popular Specialties

Specialties of unusual interest in his confection department are candied figs and a syrup made in the fig candying process. Both are products originated and made by Mr. Snyder himself and they are proving very popular with his patrons.

In this connection it is interesting to note that Mr. Snyder originated the process of candying oranges, which he sold to a $50,000 corporation now operating in Redlands, Calif. Mr. Snyder still maintains an interest in the corporation.

Mr. Snyder couldn't have chosen a more promising place for his business than on Central avenue facing Broadway. His store room is entirely new and the thirty-foot width and sixty-foot depth and fine lighting system is ideal for the accommodation of a variety stock.

Ready for Customer

As a courtesy to his customers Mr. Snyder has gotten out small customers' want books in which shoppers may jot down the things they want to purchase.

In anticipation of an increased trade for the holidays Mr. Snyder has ordered some attractive Christmas goods, but announces that he has not ordered large quantities but rather a complete variety in order that he may find out his patrons' wants before making a final order. Visitors are at all times received gladly by Mr. Snyder and invited to inspect the stock and judge for themselves the truth of Mr. Snyder's claim that "we give most of our advertising money to our customers with reasonable prices and daily bargains."

The MUCKER
by Edgar Rice Burroughs
Copyright 1921 by Edgar Rice Burroughs

"I wasn't as crafty as most of them, so I had to hold my own by brute force, and I did it; but, gad, how I accomplished it. The idea of fighting fair," he laughed at the thought, "was utterly unknown to me. If I'd ever have tried it I'd have seen my finish in a hurry. No one fought fair in my gang, or in any other gang that I ever ran up against. It was an honor to kill a man, and if you accomplished it by kicking him to death when he was unconscious it detracted nothing from the glory of your exploit—it was what you did, not how you did it, that counted."

"I could have been decent, though, if I'd wanted to. Other fellows who were born and raised near me were decent enough. They got good jobs and stuck to them, and lived straight; but they made me sick—I looked down on them, and spent my time hanging around saloon corners rushing the can and insulting women—I didn't want to be decent—not until I met you, and learned to—to," he hesitated, stammering, and the red blood crept up his neck and across his face, "and learned to want your respect."

It wasn't what he had intended saying and the girl knew it. There sprang into her mind a sudden wish to hear Billy Byrne say the words that he had dared not say; but she promptly checked the desire, and a moment later a quail of self-disgust came over her because of the weakness that had prompted her to entertain such a wish in connection with a person of this man's station in life.

Days ran into weeks, and still the two remained upon their little island refuge. Byrne found first one excuse and then another to delay the march to the sea. He knew that it must be made sooner or later, and he knew, too, that its commencement would mark the beginning of the end of his association with Miss Harding, and that after that was ended life would be a dreary waste.

Either they would be picked up by a passing vessel or murdered by the natives, but in the latter event his separation from the woman he loved would be no more certain or absolute than in her return to her own people, for Billy Byrne knew that he "didn't belong" in any society that knew Miss Barbara Harding, and he feared that once they had regained civilization that there would be a return on the girl's part to the old haughty aloofness, and that again he would be to her only a creature of a lower order, such as she and her kind addressed with a patronizing air as, "my man."

"He intended, of course, to make every possible attempt to restore her to her home; but, he argued, was it wrong to snatch a few golden hours of happiness in return for his service, and as partial recompense for the lifetime of lonely misery that must be his when the woman he loved had passed out of his life forever? Billy thought not, and so he tarried on upon "Manhattan Island," as Barbara had christened it, and he lived in the second finest residence in town upon the opposite side of "Riverside Drive" from the palatial home of Miss Harding.

Nearly two months had passed before Billy's stock of excuses and delay ran out, and a definite date was set for the commencement of the journey.

"I believe," Miss Harding had said, "that you do not wish to be rescued at all. Most of your reasons for postponing the trip have been trivial and ridiculous—possibly you are afraid of the dangers that may lie before us," she added, banteringly.

"I'm afraid you've hit it off about right," he replied with a grin. "I don't want to be rescued, and I am very much afraid of what lies before me."

"Before you?"

"I'm going to lose you, any way you look at it, and—and—oh, can't you see that I love you?" he blurted out, despite all his good intentions.

Barbara Harding looked at him for a moment, and then she did the one thing that could have hurt him most—she laughed.

The color mounted to Billy Byrne's face, and then he went very white.

"The girl started to say something, and at the same instant there came faintly to them from the mainland the sound of hoarse shouting, and of shots.

Byrne turned and started on a run in the direction of the firing, the girl following closely behind. At the island's edge he motioned her to stop.

"Wait here, it will be safer," he said. "There may be white men there—those shots sound like it, but again there may not. I want to find out before they see you, whoever they are."

The sound of firing had ceased now, but loud yelling was distinctly audible from down the river. Byrne took a step down the bank toward the water.

TODAY—Clara Wold, writing in Vienna, tells of the havoc wrought by the decline of the kronen. Living conditions in the former Austria-Hungarian capital are abominable, she points out.

TOMORROW—David M. Church, London correspondent, writes of the golfing proclivities of the Prince of Wales and comments on Ambassador Harvey's pipe-puffing penchant.

By CLARA WOLD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—The shabby taxicab drew up before my hotel a little lamely. The lean, heavily mustached driver glanced at his meter, which plainly read six kronen.

"Zwei und sechsig tausend—seventy-two thousand kronen," he shouted.

I had been warned that my bills would be calculated in thousands, but to get off a train, drive to your hotel and be heralded in millionaire's figures was indeed a surprise.

Twelve thousand times the sum registered on the meter. Thus has this old town of brilliance and cultural glory met the sudden avalanche of the Austrian crown.

Porters growl at you if you give them a 10,000 crown note; they utter a brief "danke" for 20,000. The taxi driver charges you 10,000 for each bag you carry. The boy who opens the door accepts 500 crowns as an American would a penny. A modest hotel luncheon costs you something near or just over a 50,000 crown note, and dinner comes to almost 100,000 without wine.

The old Vienna, which for years had been keeping her-doorwell foreigners luxuriously on a miserable stipend from home, is now as dear for the Englishman as living in London. With the sudden rise in the cost of living there has been an equally sudden slump in the tourist trade. The opera still goes on, as music must ever continue in Vienna, but the old fair, the brilliance, the gaiety, have entirely vanished.

I have stood on the bleak streets of Vienna, watching miserably children of ten or twelve years patiently waiting to receive their meagre parcels. They are a dismal, unsmiling, absent-minded crowd. Their thin clothes are not enough to keep them warm. Tired mothers break the line here and there.

But never have I seen the sign of panic among any of these poor. They are used to accepting misery.

I have watched long lines of university professors and intellectuals of all kinds gather at the large dining room where meals are provided at a greatly reduced cost for the low-salaried middle class. I heard stories of suffering among the middle class, the dreadful course of the old court attaches—ladies-in-waiting—who almost starved before they were a misery as great as that of the working class, they said, because the workingman lives nowadays for the same rent he paid before the war and has more money to spend on other things.

With the end of the war the overcrowding of Vienna became a problem. The working-class family naturally continued living in the same quarters. Two-room houses still serve large families.

The front room, which is little more than enough for the cooking stove, has fallen into disrepair. The concrete or stone floor is battered. A bed stands opposite, an untidy looking thing. There are ten children, the mother tells you. But where do they sleep?

"Oh, we make up the beds every night," she says, pointing to the tottering stack of bedsteads in the corner. "The covers we pile on the two beds."

You look dubiously at the covers—enough for two beds at the most.

Rows and rows of such households one sees in Vienna today. The families have trusted that each year would bring with it added possibilities for life. They have overlooked the inevitable fact that while every city stricken by the economic upheaval since the war has for a period of years offered to the foreigner a cheap living, eventually prices reached something approximating the world level. Thus both Moscow and Vienna are now as expensive as London or New York.

The brilliance of Vienna, together with the cold culture that she has so long boasted, has gone forever and in its stead is a saddened, helpless city calmly regarding another approaching winter of starvation and cold.

Angora is a city of a thousand or more years old. It occupies the site of Greek and Roman towns, whose ruins are met on all sides. The municipal bath which is still in use was built by the ancient Romans.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

BY HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE PIANO STOOL.

As Uncle Wiggily hopped up the steps of his hollow stump bungalow one day, he heard, from within, the tinkle, blinkle, winkle of the piano.

"Ah! Nurse Jane is playing some music," murmured Uncle Wiggily, as he twinkled his pink nose.

As Mr. Longears hopped into the music room, Miss Fuzzy Wuzzzy, his muskrat lady housekeeper, whirled around on the piano stool and said:

"Waiting for me to come home to dance with you?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "I'm sorry, but I have a touch of the rheumatism today, and if I dance it might get worse."

"Oh, indeed, I don't want you to dance!" laughed Nurse Jane. "I am far too busy for dancing. But I want to go over to see Mrs. Stubbail, the lady bear, and I didn't want to leave until you came home."

"Well, now that I am here, you may tiddle off," laughed the bunny.

"Did you have any adventures?" asked Nurse Jane, for when Mr. Longears had started out that morning he went to seek adventures.

"Not one did I have!" he sadly said.

"Never mind?" spoke Nurse Jane. "Perhaps you may have one now that you are home," and whirling back on the piano stool, which twisted like a merry-go-round, Nurse Jane played another pretty bit of music. Then she hurried over to see Mrs. Stubbail, leaving Uncle Wiggily alone in the hollow stump bungalow.

"I wish I could play the piano," said the bunny uncle to himself rather sadly, as he sat down on the stool. "It seems easy enough. You don't even need to wind it up as you do a phonograph. All Nurse Jane seems to do is to bang her paws down on the keys, and in some way she makes music. I wonder if I could do it?"

Uncle Wiggily sat on the piano stool, whirled about a bit and then brought his paws down on the keys.

"Jangle! Jangle! Bang! Slam! Pang! Wang!" was all the sound he made.

"Hum!" mused Uncle Wiggily as he twinkled his pink nose. "That doesn't sound much like Nurse Jane's music. I guess there must be some way of unhooking the music with the piano keys, and I don't know how to do it," thought the rabbit gentleman. "But I'll try once more."

Again he brought his paws down on the white and black keys.

"Crash! Clang! Bang! Wang! lang-ang!" went the piano all in a jangle.

"Hum!" mused the bunny. "Not much better. Perhaps if I got myself something to eat I could then play a tune," he said, and he hopped to the pantry and got himself some bread and carrot jam.

"There! Now I'll try again," said the bunny uncle.

Once more he sat down on the stool, and whirled around toward the keys. Again he banged down with his paws, and around until he went so fast and so much, that he began to feel dizzy.

"Ha! I mustn't do that! Too much is more than enough of this merry go 'round business!" he laughed to himself. He got up from the whirling stool and was sighing to think he couldn't play when, all at once, into the music room bobbed the Skillery Scallery Alligator.

"Oh, dear!" cried Uncle Wiggily, in a sorrowful voice.

"What's the matter? Does it make you sad to see me?" asked the 'Gator, sarcastic like, looking hungrily at Uncle Wiggily's ears.

"Oh, no—not exactly, but I was sighing because I couldn't play the piano," said the bunny. And then, as he knew what the 'Gator had come for—rabbit ears—Uncle Wiggily thought of a trick to play. "Could you give me a little music?" the bunny asked the Skillery Scallery chap. "I've tried to play, but I only make a jangle. Here, you sit down on the stool and play. You know how, don't you?"

"Yes, of course I play the piano," said the 'Gator, proud like, but the truth was he could only manage scales—and his own kind at that.

"Do play!" begged the bunny.

COWARDICE

All the world despises a coward. Even the coward himself despises other cowards.

I suppose as you read those sentences you think of the kind of coward I thought of when I wrote it, the kind of coward we almost always mean when we write that word—a physical coward, a person who is always afraid someone or something is going to hurt him in some physical way.

But the dictionary definition of the term is broader than that. Webster says that a coward is "a person who lacks courage."

The Life Coward. There is the physical coward, the person who lacks physical courage, and there is also the life coward, the person who lacks courage for life.

And why should one form of cowardice be any more dreaded and disliked than the other?

Indeed, I think a great deal more unhappiness comes into the world through life cowardice than through physical cowardice. And in the last analysis, how better would you rate a fault or a virtue than by the amount of happiness or unhappiness it adds to the world's store?

The person who lacks courage for life can never be happy for any length of time, and because he is not happy he will take away from his own utility and from the happiness of those around him.

What He Is Afraid Of. What do I mean specifically by lacking courage for life? Oh, many things. The head of the family has a slight illness with puzzling symptoms. The woman with courage for life says to her-

Book Reviews

Seizer of Eagles. By James Willard Schultz, Houghton Mifflin company, Boston.

Boys who love Indian stories will find this a fascinating tale. It is a picture of real life among one of the great tribes of Indians that once roamed the wide plains, and made their tepees in the dense forests of the northwest, the Blackfoot.

Mr. Schultz writes of this life with full authority. He was an adopted member of the Blackfoot tribe for a number of years, and he assures us in an author's note that this story, "Seizer of Eagles," is written exactly as told to him by Old Sun, one of the prominent men of the tribe.

The story deals with the adventures of Little Otter, an Indian boy, who, because of his fearlessness and prowess, became a "seizer of eagles," an honor in that tribe that is only attained after long and rigorous training and many religious rites.

It is a story rich with stirring incidents, buffalo hunting, deer hunting, trapping and fishing, all of which require rare skill, a cool head and infinite patience and courage. It is a tale that will hold a boy from the opening paragraph to the last line. It is one of Mr. Schultz's best, and will be appreciated by boys who love daring deeds in the great open spaces.

THANKSGIVING DINNER MENUS

The Thanksgiving dinner, which originated in New England, still means family and custom to many, but the variation in the dinner of today is noticeable when New Englanders compare notes. One family has the custom of serving the following dinner, which is far too heavy, but evidently dates back to the period when brick ovens were used and baking was done once a week. This meant that pies were made by the dozens and large quantities of meat cooked at a time. The menu:

Roast Turkey Dressing
Mashed Potato Sweet Potatoes
Mashed Turnips
Roasted Ham Cranberry Sauce
Chicken Pie
Apple, Pumpkin and Mince Pie
Coffee
Nuts Raisins Fruit Candy

With the omission of the roasted ham, chicken pie and two of the pies for dessert it makes an acceptable dinner. Many families have introduced a course to precede the turkey, such as grape fruit, oysters or soup, but the old-fashioned custom would have been, as one old New Englander said, to sit down and "fly at it."

The Thanksgiving dinner menu I have prepared for my readers provides for an appetizer, raw oysters to be served with lemon, and a soup to warm the stomach, and prepare it to take care of the heavier foods which are to follow.

In planning a menu care should be exercised not to repeat foods, served in different methods, in the same meal. My reason for not suggesting oyster cocktail is that most cocktail sauces call for tomato catsup, and since the tomato bouillon is a better soup than any cream soup, I preferred to have the oysters served with lemon.

Since pumpkin pie is the time-honored Thanksgiving pie, I did not plan for either sweet potato or squash as a vegetable, because of their similarity to pumpkin.

Roast chicken could be substituted for the turkey; grape fruit could be substituted for the oysters as an appetizer, or the dressing for the turkey could be omitted entirely. Menus cannot be slavishly followed, but with a little thought they can be adapted to each individual choice.

Roast Turkey.—Select a young turkey. Clean, dress and stuff with any preferred dressing, then sew up turkey with strong thread, tie legs and wings to body, rub it over with salt, dredge with flour; place in roasting pan on its back and set in hot oven to sear quickly. When flour is well browned, reduce the heat to 300 or 325 degrees Fahrenheit, and baste every fifteen minutes with fat in pan. No basting will be necessary if turkey is cooked in a "self-basting covered roaster." If the bird is very large, pin buttered paper over breast and legs to prevent scorching. An eight-pound turkey will require two and one-half hours' cooking, for medium done.

Chestnut Dressing.—Boil two cups chestnuts in the shell. Remove from shells and blanch them; mash thoroughly, add seasoning, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, two tablespoons melted butter and three-fourths cup cream; mix one cup cracker crumbs with two tablespoons melted butter and combine with first mixture.

"GOOSE FLESH"

An extraordinary number of women write to me and complain of large pores, blackheads and a curiously rough condition of the skin on the arms and legs which some of them aptly describe as "gooseflesh."

It doesn't seem at all polite to write them and say that this is simply due to careless washing, yet that's the plain truth of the matter. The arms and the legs are not being as heavily protected from the flying dirt of the atmosphere as the rest of the body, need a rather more vigorous treatment by dashing cold water over the skin.

"Kitty"—A school girl who is overweight is often so from eating too much candy or rich pastries. A cessation in these indulgences would return to her normal weight and good health.

Mrs. J. A.—No one could determine how long it would take to build you up so the development would be affected. I hardly think that one bottle of the tonic would do this but you may be able to determine whether or not you should continue with treatment. Many people have quick response because they recuperate easily but more time may be needed with others.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

The arms need this treatment cleansing and seldom get it. The lower part of the leg is particularly apt to show coarse black pores because the fine down that covers the skin turns into quite noticeable hairs at this point, around which small blackheads develop.

The arms and the legs should be scrubbed with hot water, soap and a moderately stiff brush either the small hand scrubbing brush or the large bath kind. If the large pores and the hardened matter under the skin that looks like gooseflesh is at all developed, then this hot water scrubbing treatment should be performed every day; if not, once a week. You will be amazed to see how soon the pores of the skin become fine after a few weeks of this treatment.

If you have had this "gooseflesh" for a long time the best thing to do is to soak the arms or legs in hot water for about ten minutes, then rub them vigorously all over with olive oil, white mineral oil, or any inexpensive oil. The idea is simply to get something oily into the pores while they are open from the heat so as to soften all this collected matter. After this vigorous rub scrub the skin with soap water and a brush as just described. End this and any other

I, I, I, MYSELF: I THE HISTORY OF ME BY ME

CHAPTER XXXIV More Exercises

I told you last week about some of my exercises that I take and this week I shall tell you more about them. There are lots of little exercises that we babies can take with the help of our Mamas or our Daddies. The chief thing to remember is that we must not be exercised so long that we get tired. And the moment we show that it is not any fun for us, you must stop.

When Mama first began she did not exercise me as long as five minutes, but now it takes ten or fifteen minutes to go through with them. I told you about the arm exercise of putting my arms over my head. Mama gives me another arm exercise very gently (all of the exercises are gentle, of course).

This is done by stretching my arms outward at the sides and bringing them forward over my chest. Then she gives me another exercise by moving my arms around in a circle very slowly. This helps expand my lungs and keeps my shoulders well back, and develops my chest.

I have a sitting up exercise that I like very much. While I am flat on my back, Mama takes me by the wrists and pulls me up gently to a sitting position. When I got so that I could do those sitting exercises with grace and agility, I began to find that I could stand on my own feet, and it was quite a moment in my life, when this was accomplished you must understand.

When I got to the sitting up stage of the exercise Mama pulls me forward a little bit, I stiffen my legs and the first thing I know I am almost standing erect. Just for a second, you understand. Of course, I am not allowed to stand on my feet more than a half second for I am not strong enough to do that yet.

Mama puts me right back to my lying down position. We only do this exercise three or four times a day. Of course, if I were not getting the proper food and if my bones were not developing properly, these exercises would not be advisable. However, the danger of a baby's being bow-legged is not so much from using its legs too soon but from improper food and lack of sunshine and fresh air.

During my waking hours Mama places me on my abdomen and naturally I want to see what is going on while I am awake so

I move my head and I push down with my arms and in that way I strengthen my neck muscles and chest muscles very vigorously. If you doubt it lie on your abdomen and raise yourself up the way I do.

Some authorities on physical culture for babies say that if we are put on our abdomens all during our waking hours we can get all of the exercises we need for some months from this alone. At any rate I can recommend it for a very fine exercise.

As I get older Mama will add more exercises to my program, and I shall probably invent a few of my own. Please remember that your babies must not be tossed into the air and swung around like Indian clubs or things like that, for these exercises are shocks to their nervous system. And you may drop the babies and injure them for life or even kill them.

I won't worry about my parents doing anything like that and I am sure I won't have to worry about my baby friends now that I have warned you.

The scientific process, discovered by DENTOMEL, Inc., for refining and concentrating fresh lemon juice and keeping it indefinitely against chemical changes is so far from being simple, quick and easy that DENTOMEL cannot be profitably sold for less than one dollar per bottle.

However, two and two do not, in this case, make four. The one dollar price does not mean that DENTOMEL costs twice as much as 50 cent preparations or four times as much as 25 cent tooth cleansers.

DENTOMEL Dentifrice Made from Fresh Lemons goes farther than one dollar's worth of any other dentifrice you can buy because it is so highly concentrated. A few drops from the big, four-ounce bottle are enough to clean your teeth as they have never been cleaned and whitened before except by a dentist with the aid of his mechanical helps.

Purchase a bottle of DENTOMEL for one dollar and provide yourself at one time with more SERVICE than you can obtain from two large tubes or four small tubes of tooth paste, for DENTOMEL SERVICE includes complete protection against Pyorrhea.

For "safety sake" skid chains should be in every tool compartment, ready for the first rainy day. Select them for your car from our very complete stock of "McKay's" Tire chains. These chains wear longer than any other because of a special process of hardening. Black gunmetal finish prevents rust.

BARE FLOORS--THE BANE OF CLEANERS

Did you ever know that one of the stiffest jobs for a cleaner to go up against is a bare floor, say a hardwood or linoleum floor?

The ROYAL actually shines on these floors. Concrete surfaces, in fact ANY uncarpeted surface, is "duck soup" for the ROYAL, to use plain language. It's the only cleaner that can get ALL the dirt off surfaces of this kind.

For this purpose you'll find a floor-brush. This fits over the nozzle, but is not a whirling affair that saps the strength of the vacuum. It simply brushes up the dust and the ROYAL'S powerful "pull" does the rest.

Let our ROYAL Man show you how very versatile the ROYAL is. He'll be glad to give a home demonstration.

BIG 'GRID' GAMES BOOKED FRIDAY

Glendale Varsity to Meet Alumni Eleven; Midgets, San Fernando Tangle

Two of the best football games of the season will be on tap for Glendale fans on Moyle field next Friday afternoon, when the Glendale varsity team meets the fast alumni eleven and the midgets tangle with the San Fernando "130 pounders."

The lightweight affair will be the first game scheduled in the playoffs for the Southern California championship.

The varsity-alumni game will be called promptly at 1:30 p. m., and the entire school will be dismissed at that time for the event. The day has been designated as alumni day and during the afternoon all former students of Glendale high will gather to talk over the old days and see their old school mates again on the field in football uniforms.

Fast Players Enlisted.
The alumni have gathered together some of the fastest players turned out in recent years and will put a well organized team on the field. Wilde and Tummel, two of the best backfield men ever developed at Glendale, will have berths on the team, while the line which is composed of star players of former years will average nearly 195 pounds.

The high school squad will be greatly benefited by the presence of Fraley, Ertter and Pruitt, stars of last year who were ineligible for this season's team, although attending school.

The high school boys will be greatly outweighed but expect to win because of greater teamwork. The alumni eleven will not play a ragged game, however, for they have been practicing every Monday and Wednesday night for the past month under the lights on the Colorado street gridiron.

Lightweights' Successful.
The Glendale "lightweights" were very successful in the Central league this year, taking the championship pennant. Only six points have been scored on them so far, this being done by Alhambra in the last game.

Four of the heavyweight team are out for "130 pound" squads as they were easily able to take off the required weight. This makes the chances for Glendale's victory decidedly bright.

A victory over San Fernando Friday will practically make Glendale "champs" of southern California, as San Fernando is considered to be the strongest contender for the title.

Many extra seats will be provided to accommodate the big crowd expected at the game. Special features, such as the registration of all alumni have been worked out to make the day a success. A crowd of 3000 fans will probably attend the game.

SOCCER MATCH IS LOST BY LOCALS

Santa Monica Beats Lincoln Intermediates 1 to 0 In Close Game

The Wilson avenue 110-pound soccer team journeyed to Santa Monica Tuesday afternoon where they met the 110-pound team of Lincoln Intermediate on its home grounds. The teams were quite evenly matched, and the Glendale boys held them to a no score tie until the last half, when Lincoln made one goal. The final result was 1 to 0, for Santa Monica.

Accompanying the Wilson team were Chas. Merrill, coach; A. T. Blanford, supervisor of physical training; Miss Alice Lookaugh and Miss Frances Jackson of Wilson avenue school, and A. C. Muff.

Play Tomorrow
The heavyweights of Lincoln school, who have been defeated twice this season by the Wilson team of heavies, are scheduled for a game with the Glendale avenue team Thursday of this week on Glendale grounds.

By downing the B 7-4 team with a score of 2 to 0 at Wilson avenue Tuesday, the A-7-3 class team of which Mae McAtter is captain, won the Seventh Grade championship.

Featherweights Hold Fights at Portland

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 22.—Danny Nunes, Sacramento battler, beat Ad Macko, and Weldon Wing stopped Smith in the two main featherweight clashes at the armory here last night.

Nunes probably would have scored a K. O. if the bout had lasted ten seconds longer.

Weldon Wing chopped Smith viciously for seven rounds and his body blows and right jab proved too much in the eighth. The bout was stopped when Smith went down twice from successive punches.

Chick Rocco won a four-round decision over Leo Bell. Kid Johnson and Joe Noff fought a draw in another four-rounder and Brick Coyle stopped George Hale in the third round of the curtain raiser.

FIGHTS FOR RIGHTS IN 'BIG TEN'

Don Murray, star tackle on the Wisconsin university eleven, who has been ruled ineligible to play football or take part in any kind of athletics in the "Big Ten" conference because of his having played with a professional football team at Taylorsville, Illinois, last fall.

The World Over
By FRANKLIN B. MORSE.
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

It's a wonderful thing how much interest millions of persons all over the United States can take in the condition of the upper joint of a single finger. Of course, it all depends on whose finger it is. If Ike Smith, down at the grocer's had a bum digit, it isn't likely that anyone outside of Ike's immediate family would know anything about it. Of course, the boss might be interested, particularly if Ike was making his complaint a reason for taking things easy.

In this case the finger belongs to William Tilden, championship singles tennis player of the United States, and this means the world as far as tennis players are concerned. Will he or will he not play again, and if he does, will it affect his game?

There is no reason why a man with a finger gone should not play just as well as he ever did as soon as he becomes accustomed to the condition, which is a matter of only a comparatively short time. There have been champion players in the past who have not had whole anatomies.

There probably never was a tennis player who stood at the head of the ranks for so long a time as Bill Larned and yet Larned was a man who had one or more of the joints of his racket hand missing.

In football, we recall that Adison Kelly, one of the best half-backs that Princeton university ever had, was minus the toes on one of his feet. The story is to the effect that Kelly first went up to Yale. When he appeared at the training quarters to try for the team, he was told that there was no chance of his being able to make good under the conditions.

Now, Kelly wanted to play football and just because one of the Yale coaches told him he couldn't make good did not satisfy him, so he immediately took the examinations for Princeton and got in. What he did during his days on the gridiron is part of the football history of that institution.

There are a number of swimmers of national reputation who are minus a leg. The Olympic club of San Francisco has one of these who, in his active days, was one of the best men in the water on the coast. As a water polo player he had few equals and he played on the team that won the national championship a few years ago.

Under the circumstances anything relatively as small as the loss of a joint on a finger does not need to put a scare into anybody. In fact, it would be surprising to find a man as fond of tennis as Tilden retiring from the game on this account.

There is a real drawing card against the California team. It hardly looks as though the real strength and ability of California will be tested this year by any eastern team. California has definitely announced its refusal to be considered and on this decision the Coast Conference will be forced to name the best team to go into the contest.

Washington and the University of California, the latter of Los Angeles and the real home team for a Pasadena game are the next logical selections. It is rumored that the Southern California team will be invited to represent the west, but nothing definite is assured on this at the present.

Should U. S. C. be named it would be a popular choice in south California and with a genuine home team going against an eastern college on the Pasadena field a bumper house will naturally result. The Southern California team is a strong aggregation. It has beaten Stanford but lost to California, but that is the result of all teams going against California. All in all it looks as though California varsity is finished as far as future intercollegiate games are concerned.

WILLIE HOPPE IS AGAIN CHAMPION

Jake Schaefer Loses His Title In Championship Meet Last Night

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.
NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Willie Hoppe, the world's champion footstep last night to that day when as an under-sized blond boy he first won a world's championship in billiard, and a wild, spontaneous, paen of the good sport for the good winner acclaimed the man as it had greeted the youth fifteen years before.

The echo of that roaring chorus, greeting the victory of Hoppe, the champion returned, over Jake Schaefer, the champion departed, by a score of 500 to 283. We thrilled now as we thrilled to it years ago. Deep throated it was in its basic note, shrill in others with their near hysteric relieved emotions.

It started before Hoppe made the final point of an unfinished run of 106, closing with official finality the international tournament for the 18.2 ball line championship; then swelled deeper and louder with each passing moment.

Great Demonstration
The demonstration almost without parallel in competitive billiards or any other kind continued through moments and it was still at its height, when, seemingly by tacit consent, the crowd moved in a body upon the conqueror and the conquered.

The crowd was so great, too late, however, a pretty young woman, with shining eyes and blonde bobbed hair, rushed to the side of the new champion and planted a full, emphatic kiss upon his cheek. She was Mrs. Willie Hoppe and she wanted the world to know that she was the wife of her man, as she turned to the crowd and led the ovation with the swinging arm of a college cheer leader.

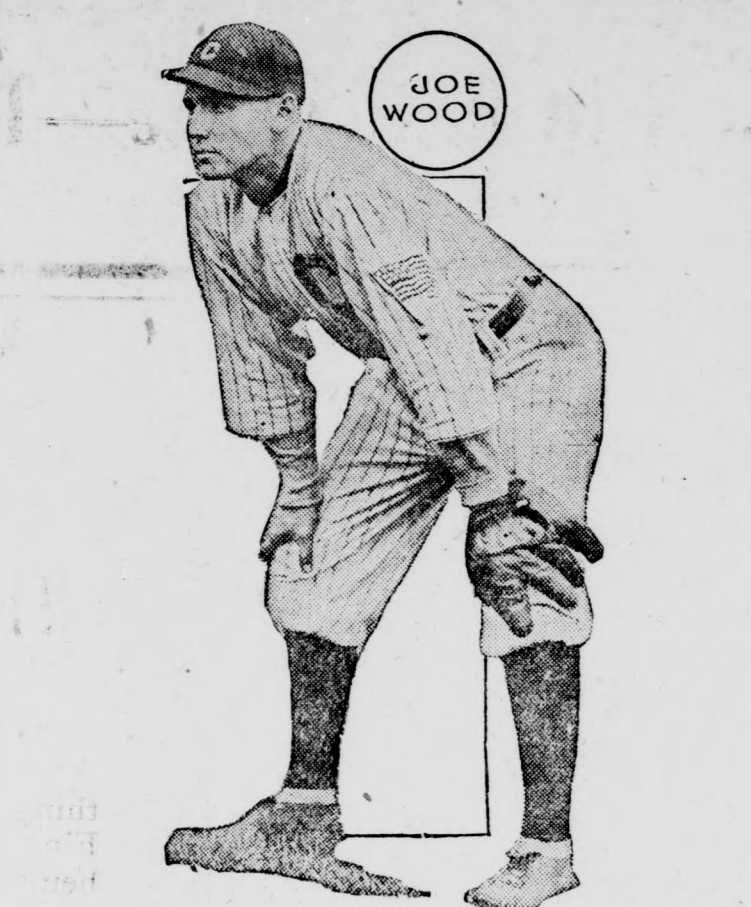

Real drama, that. So were the minutes that followed as Hoppe made the rounds of the enclosed off enclosure, shaking hands with a few men and women he may have known and about 1,500 more whom he probably never saw in his life before. The entire evening, in fact, was impressive with drama.

Schaefer never was even the suggestion of the young player who wrested the title from Hoppe in Chicago last year. He had the touch of a blacksmith and his best effort was a run of 99 in compiling a total of 283 for twelve innings. He was very good and equally bad by turns.

The famous Hoppe "fiddle" he has acquired through some lack of mutual understanding between the mind and the muscle was in evidence more than once. It is nothing more than a prolonged measuring of an ordinary shot.

Only in attitude did Hoppe betray his alternating waves of confidence and despair. In compiling runs of 111 in the second inning, 188 in the eleventh and 106 in the twelfth in the first inning he was the Hoppe of other and perhaps better years, debonair, assured and precise. But when Schaefer, with his run of 99 in the sixth inning, took the lead at 162 to 127 and subsequently with a cluster of 67 in the tenth maintained the advantage at 259 to 206, Hoppe appeared to have aged in some strange way. During that interval he was ripe for plucking, but Schaefer was not equal to the occasion.

JOE WOOD TO ASSIST YALE TEAM

Joseph Wood, right fielder of the Cleveland American league team, will come to Yale as assistant to Head Coach Bernie Tommers of the Yale baseball team. Wood was at New Haven at the Yale-Brown game, when arrangements were completed for a contract covering a period of years. He will coach the 'varsity' pitchers and will have charge of the freshman team.

Highland Heights Is Attracting Investors

One of the gems of the foothill district in Glendale, Highland Heights, is now being subdivided by F. N. Almstead & Co. into fine residential lots. Highland Heights is exceptional from several angles. Lying as it does above the city of Glendale, just off Kenneth Road, a perfect view of the San Fernando valley is obtained while to the south, Glendale, Tropic and Los Angeles stretch out in wonderful panorama. High as this tract is, the approach is gradual along Glendale's "Gold Coast" Kenneth Road and the street work connecting Kenneth Road with "Highland Heights" is now being rapidly pushed to completion.

The subdividers, F. N. Almstead & Company, have placed this tract on sale at a price that will enable all to realize the ambition to own a lot in direct contact with the millionaire colony. Several of Los Angeles' and Glendale's wealthiest citizens now own homes in this district, and their millions can command no finer homesites than the hundreds of those less favored by fortune. The Almstead Company expect the entire tract to be sold before thirty days are up and with all the advantages this tract holds their hope should be easily realized.

Offices have been opened at 209 W. Broadway with J. M. Boland as local representative.

ALL-STAR BOXING CONTEST TONIGHT

Show Held Under Auspices M. W. A.; Dancing Will Follow Fights

With an all-star program that will include four first class boxing bouts, a wrestling match between Walter Dodge of this city and Joe Kelly of Los Angeles, and a performance by the Hare of the Modern Woodmen of America is expecting a record attendance tonight at the American legion hall, 610 East Broadway.

The dance following the boxing matches is a new alibi for young men to take their "sweet young things" to the affair, and Mr. Hare is predicting a good time for all present. The first match will take place promptly at 8 o'clock. It is the plan to clear the floor for dancing shortly after 9 o'clock.

In the feature wrestling bout Joe Kelly, who has trimmed "Hot Dog" Weiner of San Francisco in two bouts during the past months, will do his stuff against Walter Dodge, Glendale's middle weight champion.

The boxing matches will include Christopher Columbus vs. Daniel Webster, Kid Mex vs. Young Harry, Young Fitzsimmons vs. George Strong and Kid Pink vs. Allie Same.

RED CROSS HOLDS PLAN BIG TREE TWO BUNDLE DAYS FOR CHRISTMAS

Old Clothing of Glendadians
Will Go to Many Destitute
Greeks in Smyrna

R. W. Mottern, publicity director for the Red Cross' Bundle Days, to be observed Thursday and Friday of this week, issued the following statement this morning for the people of Glendale:

"Glendale has always done its bit in response to the nation-wide calls coming from time to time. This is another opportunity where the spirit of the Good Samaritan can be exhibited to the helpless. Parents and children, husbands and wives are called upon to get a bundle of cast-off, out-of-style, outgrown clothes, any size, from the infant to the adult, including coats, suits, dresses, underclothing, shoes, anything that helps to keep a human body warm. Send your packages to public schoolhouses, to the Los Feliz fire engine house, or to the church nearest your home, where packages will be taken care of.

"These are the reasons for this nation-wide appeal by the Red Cross. As a result of the recent war between the Turks and Greeks, the Greek army has been driven out of Turkey and an attempt has been made by the Turks to force the entire Greek population of Asia Minor out of that country. As these refugees speak the Greek language they have been taken by British, American, French and Italian warships and put ashore either on the Greek mainland or the Greek islands, of which many lie between Smyrna and Greece.

"As the Greek population was driven out immediately following the terrible sucking and destroying of the city of Smyrna, their homes, household goods, business and all belongings, went up in smoke in an awful holocaust. That city, once the pride of Asia Minor, today is one charred mass of ruins. Its people are exiles, refugees.

"These refugees have been landed on Greek soil without any resources or means of self-protection, clothing or feeding themselves. It is estimated the number of these refugees thus so suddenly forced from their homes, and compelled to abandon everything home means, is more than 700,000. The chief centers where these unfortunate people, unhappy and dissolute, miserable and wretched, have been crowded are Athens, Saloniki, Kavala and the Greek islands. The single small island of Mytilene alone is said to have received 150,000 of these people in all their misery and poverty, more than half without shelter.

"The able-bodied men among the Greeks have been seized and imprisoned by the Turks, or driven into the interior, separated from their families. Thus the helpless refugees consist largely of women and children, with some feeble old men and women.

"Large shipments of food, clothing, blankets, etc., have already been made by the Red Cross and the Near East Relief, which are working together as far as possible.

"Remember, he who gives quickly gives twice." This appeal is backed up by President Harding and the entire country.

"Thursday and Friday of this week are Glendale's 'Bundle Days.'

Annual Election of Tajunga C. of C. Held

The Tajunga Chapter of Commerce held its annual election last night. The members elected on the board of directors were Nelson Jones, J. B. Bodkin, Leon Carr and L. H. Lisher. Mr. Carr was elected to serve only one year. The rest will fill three year terms.

All Civic Organizations Will Take Active Part In Community Affair

A huge community Christmas tree will be established in Glendale this year for the children of the community, according to an announcement made yesterday at the weekly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

All of the clubs and civic organizations in the city are behind the project.

The Kiwanis club, which started the humanitarian task, promises that not a single child will be overlooked by Santa Claus this year. A letter received from the Kiwanis club by James Rhoades, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, and read at yesterday's luncheon, asked that a committee of two be appointed by the chamber to meet with like committees from other organizations for the purpose of completing arrangements.

Car Line Report

A report on the Glendale avenue car line project was submitted by P. J. Hazelden, chairman of the railway committee. It was read by Mr. Rhoades. It follows in part:

"The action and moral support of the Chamber of Commerce in behalf of the campaign to raise funds necessary for realization of an electric car line on Glendale avenue, with resultant reduction in fares between Los Angeles and Glendale, is greatly appreciated by this committee.

"We also wish to report that the action of Montrose and La-Crescenta has been most gratifying to the committee.

"We feel that the chamber's support has to a large extent made possible the raising of the funds secured, and has proven also the unity of Glendale—a municipality without territorial divisions."

Hotel Situation.

Following this reading, a discussion was held between the Glendale Advancement Association and Chamber of Commerce directors relative to the hotel situation.

P. J. Hazelden and others on the chamber's hotel committee stated that they hoped negotiations for the building of the hotel at east Broadway and Glendale avenue would be completed. Further, they announced that the Hockinsbury Hotel company, which promotes and finances hotel projects, had become interested in the deal.

The Glendale Avenue Advancement Association also reported that the plans are now in process of formation for the paving of Glendale avenue.

Ten New Members.

Names of ten new business firms which joined the Chamber of Commerce the past week were read before the meeting adjourned. They were:

J. R. Nash & Co., 1728 South San Fernando road; Oakmont Country Club, Monarch building; Eliza-Jane Realty Co., 1424 South Central avenue; J. F. Gasser, 113 East Broadway; E. H. Reaser, 1105 Melrose avenue; Nordstrom Record Shoppe, No. 5 Court Street; Dr. Theo. P. Noehle, Monarch building; Harper Method of Scalp Treatment, Monarch building; Dr. C. A. Hefty, 103 North Brand boulevard; F. D. Meyer, 332-A North Brand boulevard.

Dancing Studio Now Opens Winter Season

The resuming of activities for the winter by the Gaboury Dancing studio at 347 North Brand boulevard, has been announced by Oliver J. Gaboury. Assisting in the dancing classes is Mrs. Ward. All types of dancing, ballroom and acrobatic are taught at the Gaboury and Mr. Gaboury is placing special emphasis on juvenile work.

Step dancing, ballet and toe dancing and international dancing are all taught by Mr. Gaboury.

BIG PROGRAM ON PAVING STREETS

W. J. McIntyre is in charge of one party and George H. Rowe is in charge of the other. Chairmen are M. J. Eaton, R. J. Templeman, Z. B. Compton and Hugo Junker.

Many Assessments

"In connection with fifteen jobs," remarked Mr. Dupuy, "there are over 4,000 separate assessments to be figured out in order to cover the payments."

This business of calculating each property owner's share of the expense of improving his home is being done by four clerks: A. G. Wheldon, A. M. West, Miss K. B. Shea and Mrs. Esther Pierce.

The work of sending out notices of assessments and bills is now being taken care of by Bert Cartledge, Omer Summers, Mrs. Estelle Groff and Miss Elizabeth Allen.

A new map of the city, which will be used for assessment purposes, is now being prepared by J. E. Johnson, H. S. Ducey, Roy E. Johnson and H. H. Parker. Street improvement maps are now being drawn by F. R. Goodman and H. G. Sheldon.

Secures Many Deeds

V. B. Stone, assistant city engineer, is spending his entire time in securing deeds to right of ways.

The only member of the street department who is not engaged in work pertaining to the local street system, is A. H. Early, who is making a tentative map for a sewer system.

All street work now under way is being rushed to completion as fast as possible, according to City Engineer Dupuy.

Grading started this week upon six jobs as follows:

Pacific avenue between Myrtle and Doran streets. This improvement calls for three-inch macadam paving. The contract is held by Peter L. Ferry.

Three-Inch Macadam

Wilson avenue from Verdugo road to eastern limits of city. This also calls for three-inch macadam. The contract is held by F. L. Fleming.

Cypress and Oakridge avenues east of Boynton street. Specifications call for three-inch macadam. Work is being supervised by P. L. Ferry.

Adams street and North Adams place between Lexington drive and Monterey road. Details provide for oil and gravel to be applied by a gang under charge of E. L. Fleming.

Ben Lomond, Glenview and Arden streets for their entire length. Bids called for five-inch macadam. The contract was awarded to E. L. Fleming, but has been assigned to F. L. Ferry.

Stanley avenue between Adams street east of Sycamore Canyon road. This street will be paved with five-inch macadam. The contract is held by W. J. Curran.

Broadway from Pacific avenue to San Fernando road. The contracting firm of Ducey & Briedenstein of Pasadena is scheduled to finish this job the first of next week, but may complete it this week.

Other Thoroughfares

Columbus avenue between Broadway and Arden avenue is now being paved with three-inch macadam by Cornwell & Henderson.

Millard street between Central and Columbus avenues is scheduled for completion with three-inch macadam within a few days by W. J. Curran.

Wilson and California avenue between Brand boulevard and Central avenue are now being paved with five-inch asphaltic concrete. They will be ready for traffic within a few days. The contract is held by P. L. Ferry but the asphalt work is being done by G. R. Curtis.

Los Feliz road, between the Southern Pacific tracks and Glendale avenue is now in process of improvement by the Los Angeles Paving company.

Pacific avenue between Broadway and San Fernando road is being paved with five-inch macadam. Napier & Simpson expect to have this job finished about the first of December.

Patterson avenue, between Kenilworth avenue and Concord street; Fairmont avenue between Chester street and Concord street; Chester street from Patterson to south of Fairmont street. These three jobs call for five-inch macadam. Contracts are held by Cornwell & Henderson.

Gets Third Set of Teeth Near Seventy

WALLA WALLA, Wash.—"The lads raised in the old days are the hardy ones. You can't beat 'em!"

This remark was made by George Maxfield, 68, to a group of ex-servicemen at the United States Veterans' hospital here, who consider themselves pretty "tough."

Maxfield bewildered them still further by remarking that he will be eating corn off the cob next summer.

Asked what this had to do with it, he displayed three "newly-arrived" teeth of the third set he is now "cutting." Maxfield explained that he had only recently lost his second set of teeth and asserted that the coming of the first of the third set is proof of his vitality. He is backed in his stand by local dentists, who say that the occurrence is well-nigh unprecedented.

CHILDREN'S WEEK AT CITY LIBRARY

Event Proves Success and Young Folk Continue to Show Their Interest

Members of the library board, Scout Executive Harold Benner, Benjamin Robinson, master of Troop 2, and his son, Benjamin Robinson, and Scout Executive Chandler of Los Angeles, members of the library staff, patrons and citizens came over to see the books, pennants and flowers were artistically arranged in decorating for the hearty reception accorded Mr. McGroarty.

Mrs. Danford's presentation of Mr. McGroarty was particularly pleasing and was highly appreciated by the well known writer.

Furnishes Inspiration

"Mr. Benner came over to see me about arrangements for Scout Night," said Mrs. Danford, "and we agreed that we must have an honored guest and speaker."

"I said, 'We must have a dignified man because he is to be the guest of the library. We must have a literary man because this is a library affair. And we must have a man of principle because he is to be the guest on Scout night!'"

"Before I could say more Mr. Benner interrupted me by speaking the name McGroarty."

"The visit of the late Joseph Daniels, well known and beloved librarian of Riverside, and his address of the library of the library," here at the library has always been the red letter day in the library and I often thought that such an event could never come again.

"But, it has, for John Steven McGroarty is our guest and will speak to us."

Mr. McGroarty was noticeably touched by this introduction and the tears filled his eyes in expression of his appreciation of the tribute paid his late friend, Mr. Daniels, and of the privilege he enjoyed of being Glendale's guest.

Mr. McGroarty, who lately returned from a foreign tour, sketched his trip, picturing conditions in the foreign countries and contrasting the utter lack of fellowship with the inspiring spirit of brotherhood existing among the people of the United States, who all speak the same language and use the same coin.

So successful was the Children's Week program that Mrs. Danford is enlisting the interest and services of the city school officials and teachers in forming a children's reading circle that will continue on through the school year and through the summer vacation.

INVESTORS FAVOR RESTRICTED LOTS

Two Well Situated Tracts
Are Proving Popular, Is Report From Company

That Glendale intends to maintain its reputation as a city of homes that are above the average is manifested by the inquiries of the increasing number of home-seekers that are arriving in this city every day. This city has become known as a city of exclusively high-class residences, free from the menace of the infringing "shacks" that so often have a tendency to keep the investors of the better class from purchasing a permanent home in a location that they would regret a little later on.

An interview with the officers of the Glendale investment company with offices at 211 West Broadway, discloses the fact that the many inquiries that have been made at their office during the past two weeks the majority have been for residences of a distinctly higher class averaging from six to ten rooms, and in a locality that is restricted to homes of that class. During the two weeks just past this company has accomplished the sale of several large homes in the north end of the city, and in each instance the purchaser was most careful to be assured of restrictions and surroundings.

Highly Restricted Tracts

At the present time the Glendale investment company has the exclusive handling of two highly restricted tracts, and their sales of lots in the Clement Orange tract, on Pacific avenue at Glendwood road, is progressing at a rate beyond their expectations. This tract is an elevated tract, where proper restrictions obtain, and where each lot has approximately twenty-six full bearing orange trees on it, it is readily believed that the entire tract will be sold within a very short time.

The company is negotiating right now for the opening of another specially desirable tract of twenty acres in the same territory which will be subdivided in the near future. There are, however, many who desire large comfortable homes that are already completed, as is exemplified by the sales by this company in the past two weeks of four homes of the higher type, one on North Jackson street, one on Central avenue, one on Maryland avenue and one on Mountain street, each of which sold for between $10,000 and $20,000.

With the advent of the annual winter tourist about to begin, it is felt by this company that many of the better homes with which Glendale is favored will be absorbed by discriminating buyers from the east, the advance guard of whom is even now casting about for their future home.

PUBLIC SPIRITED MEN GREAT NEED

"Commerce. If the latter lags, so does the town or city."

Requires Attention

Mr. Farley continually sought to impress his listeners with the truth that business men can only hope to get out of a community what they put into it.

"You should give your Chamber of Commerce and city just as much attention and time as you to your business," he told them.

"Years ago in various sections of the United States pioneers were forced to build forts and the like for the protection of themselves and families from savages. Today, unfortunately, conditions have changed very little from a commercial and business viewpoint."

Backing Up C. of C.

"Today you public spirited men of this community, and others, are forced continually to build blockades to keep outside interests from entering and confiscating your property. The only way to block these moves is by cooperation—by backing up your Chamber of Commerce."

Mr. Farley preceded in his talk by Fred Meney, proprietor of the Glendale Window Shade factory, which is located on San Fernando road. Mr. Meney told the assemblage that his plant now employs twenty-five men and that its output this year would reach $500,000. He also described briefly the process involved in the manufacture of window shades.

Teachers Leave for Musical Conference

Mrs. Dora L. Gibson, head of the music department in the Glendale Union High school, and Miss Elsa Brennaman, director of music in the city's grammar and intermediate schools, left today for Oakland to attend a statewide musical conference.

The conference has been called by the state board of education and the directors attending will confer with heads of music departments in colleges and universities in all parts of the state with a view to a more co-operative organization of school music.

A big gathering of superintendents of schools throughout California is also being held in Oakland this week and Richardson D. White, superintendent of Glendale schools, is in attendance.

statements of a like character. In view of the importance of the question and in further view of the fact that the annexation forces are organized and conducting a campaign, those opposed to annexation are urged to be at the Glendale Union High school auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight. The call for the meeting follows:

We, the undersigned citizens of Glendale, believing that the welfare and progress of our community are threatened by propaganda seeking to enlist support for a movement towards annexation with Los Angeles, hereby organize one with the other, to afford this community an opportunity to place its disapproval upon all such movements, without the expense of holding an election to register this negative.

We, therefore, call upon all true and loyal taxpayers and residents of Glendale to appear at a mass meeting to be held Wednesday, November 22, at 8 o'clock in the Union High school auditorium, for the full expression of sentiment upon the matter as now being propagated among our citizens.

We call upon all taxpayers to appear and express each for him or herself any and all thought upon this important matter in anticipation of any organized effort to secure an endorsement of annexation.

You are menaced by an attempt to add the assets of your city to those of Los Angeles, by an attempt to place upon your property a share of the burden of $87,000,000 bonded indebtedness. The situation is serious. It must be met with a united front. Let us get together.

Eagle Glen Heights Homesites Popular

The high standing of purchasers of homesites in Eagle Glen Heights further emphasizes the contention of H. V. Henry, local manager of that well-known local subdivision, that the development of the eastern part of Glendale as a residential section of high character is assured.

Some of those who plan to make this J. Harvey McCarthy subdivision their future home are: Frank Ayars, publisher; Dr. George Thomas of Hollywood, Dr. Edward Alsburger, A. G. Spohr, well known Glendale merchant; H. B. Howeth, brick manufacturer; Thomas D. Watson, president Glendale Union High school board of trustees; George Lindsay, architect; Charles Perry, contractor; Rev. W. W. Cookman, W. W. Cookman, Jr., J. R. Prince, attorney Los Angeles city engineer's office; J. C. McQuiston, purchasing agent, Santa Fe Railway company; J. K. Todd, automobile paint manufacturer, and Mrs. M. L. Bryant.

Mr. Henry points out, that now the practically all improvements have been completed and public utilities installed at Eagle Glen Heights, the erection of homes is proceeding at an exceedingly rapid rate. Nearly all of the street

School Committee Visits Institutions

No official action was taken yesterday by the committee of fifteen which toured the grammar school system. All schools were visited and Verdugo Woodlands and Sparr Heights were visited also. Because of the fact that the meeting next Tuesday night of representatives of the various divisions in the high school district may make some recommendation in regard to the use of the present high school plant, a formal meeting is being delayed by the grammar school committee.

work has been completed with the exception of the top surfacing of the streets which is to be finished at a very early date. The paving, sidewalks, curbs and gutters are all in and the planting of the beautiful shade trees which are to ornament the tract will be begun very shortly. Gas mains, water mains and electric wiring are all in place, so that Eagle Glen Heights is completely ready for anyone who wishes to build for immediate occupancy.
